Academic Integrity Policy

From the Student Handbook

All members of the Capital community – students, faculty, and staff – have a role in upholding academic integrity. For undergraduate students, the Academic Integrity Policy is overseen by the Academic Integrity Board and its Director under the auspices of the Provost's office. The framework for Capital's academic integrity policy and the Academic Integrity Board were created by the Undergraduate Faculty. This policy balances the autonomy of the faculty and the consistency and fairness necessary for the student body.

The policy is academic in nature and thus encourages education on issues of academic integrity in addition to insuring that the policy is followed throughout the community. The Board's responsibilities include education, assistance, deterrence, and imposition of sanctions; however, the Board's ultimate goal is compliance, not punishment.

The Academic Integrity Board membership includes students and faculty representing all of the schools and colleges at Capital. Students make up the majority of the board membership, and there is a minimum of one faculty member from each school with the exception of the College of Arts and Sciences which has a minimum of two members. The director of the Board and the faculty will be appointed by the Provost in consultation with the deans. Students will be appointed by the director in consultation with faculty and student representatives. A subset of the academic integrity board, the Academic Judiciary Panel, will hear cases of academic integrity violations (see Academic Judiciary Process below).

What is Academic Integrity?

"The National Center for Academic Integrity (CAI) defines academic integrity as a commitment, even in the face of adversity, to five fundamental values: honesty, trust, fairness, respect, and responsibility. From these values flow principles of behavior that enable academic communities to translate ideals into action.

"These values are encompassed in the mission of Capital University which works for "transforming lives through higher education,...provides for personal growth by encouraging, enabling, and celebrating learning, ...(and) inspires individuals to be morally reflective, spiritually alive, and civically engaged through our Lutheran heritage of free inquiry." As the Center for Academic Integrity notes, "academic integrity policies and procedures, with faculty and student support, promote the learning process and the pursuit of truth. This also helps create a stronger civic culture for society as a whole."

Academic integrity engenders trust that the work that students submit to faculty or University personnel for academic evaluation will be his/her own. In many cases, students will utilize the intellectual ideas of others to support their academic work. Capital students are expected to be honest in their interactions with University personnel and in their academic endeavors providing credit to the originator or author of any information utilized to support academic work. On occasion, faculty and instructors provide opportunities for certain types of collaboration. It is the expectation that faculty and instructors outline their class policy regarding collaboration in the course syllabus, in instructions for course assignments, or during introductions at the beginning of any course.

A non-exhaustive list of behaviors that constitute academic misconduct and subject one to sanctions includes:

Cheating

Using or attempting to use unauthorized assistance in any academic exercise, including:

- Deceiving/misrepresenting information submitted on a paper/test/project
- Copying from another's test or allowing another to copy your work
- Using materials/notes not permitted by the instructor during an examination
- Collaborating on a test/project when not authorized to do so by the instructor
- Receiving, giving or stealing parts of, or an entire test, or impeding the fair process of examination
- Substitution of one student for another during an examination

Collusion

Unauthorized collaboration with another person in preparing any academic work offered for credit.

Fabrication/Falsification

Using "invented" information or falsifying research, data, or findings with the intent to deceive such as:

- Citing information not taken from the source indicated: misleading documentation of secondary source materials
- Listing sources in a bibliography not directly used in the academic exercise
- Submitting lab reports or clinical data which contain fictitious/falsified information; concealing/distorting the true nature, origin, function of such data

Misrepresentation

Misrepresenting or misusing one's relationship with the University, including:

- Falsifying, misusing, omitting, or tampering with information such as test scores, transcripts, or letters of recommendation
- Altering, changing, forging, or misusing academic records regarding oneself or others
- Failing to be fully cooperative and truthful if one has direct knowledge of an alleged violation of academic integrity
- Reporting an academic integrity violation known to be false

Plagiarism

Plagiarism occurs when you represent the work or ideas of another person as your own. Some examples of plagiarism include:

- Quoting verbatim another person's words (published or unpublished) without acknowledgement of the source.
- Paraphrasing another person's idea(s), opinions, or theory (ies) without giving reference.
- Including facts, statistics, or other illustrative materials that are not common knowledge, without acknowledgement of the source. Students are expected to clarify with their instructor appropriate criteria for "common knowledge."
- Submitting another person's term paper, essay test answer, computer program, and/or project as one's own.

Citing Sources

Capital University requires all students to cite or reference the source of any work or ideas being represented in their work to avoid being charged with academic misconduct. The guiding principles of citing sources include:

1. Honesty: Acknowledging that the words or ideas are not originally yours, as well as giving credit to the originator;
2. Critical Thinking: To encourage students to clearly represent their thoughts, ideas, and opinions with supporting evidence from the recognized work of others.
3. Evidence: To provide support from other sources for your thoughts; and

4. Guidance: To enable the interested reader to locate the information in question. Plagiarism occurs when a person neglects to cite sources. When any person fails to cite their sources, the person is taking credit for the original thoughts and ideas of another person (a type of fraud) and at the same time preventing the reader(s) from gaining access to the original sources. Many people either misunderstand or do not care to exercise the effort to cite in their writing all quotations, paraphrases, informational claims, and concepts. While common knowledge does not have to be cited, you must be very careful about labeling something “common knowledge.”

The requirement to cite each instance of each idea or informational claim entails that if you use a source with ideas or information on various pages (particularly if the information is not all in one continuous passage), then she/he must include as many citations as there are passages to which you refer. Sources may include books, articles, pamphlets, films, television, radio programs, e-mail messages, conversations and/or the Internet.

Conversations and information from lectures and textbooks must also be cited. Papers or other work prepared for previous courses are in fact sources and students should check with instructors about the use of such materials.

Citations can appear as follows:

- Footnotes: Appearing at the bottom of the page where the citation occurs;
  - Endnotes: Appearing all together at the end of the paper; or
  - Parenthetical format: Modern Language Association and American Psychological Association styles.
- Students should check with their instructors to determine which style is required or preferred.

Consequences of Academic Misconduct

All members of the Capital community – students, faculty, and staff – have a role in upholding academic integrity, and may report a violation to the Director of the Academic Integrity Board. Faculty members are responsible for awarding grades for academic performance (up to a grade of F for the course) and shall report all cases of academic integrity violations to the Academic Integrity Board. The AI Board is responsible for imposing penalties for integrity violations.

Minor Unintentional Violations

A faculty member may choose to work directly with a student to resolve what the faculty member believes is a minor unintentional integrity violation. However, the faculty member must still report such a violation to the Director of the Academic Integrity Board, using the AI Report Form. The report should provide: the name(s) of the student(s), the date and a description of the alleged violation, facts surrounding the alleged violation(s), and any documentation of the violation.

The Director will review the records within 24 hours to insure that this is a first time offense. If this is a first time offense, the faculty member will resolve the academic issue with the student and the Director will issue the student a warning for violation of the academic integrity policy. Such warning will provide written notice to the student that continuation or repetition of a violation of the academic integrity policy will result in more severe disciplinary action, and the student will be required to review the AI policy with the Director or attend an Academic Integrity seminar. If this is not a first time offense, the faculty member may resolve the academic issue with the student and the Director will initiate the Academic Judiciary Process of the Board.

Substantial or Intentional Violations

All substantial and all intentional violations of the integrity policy must be reported to the Director of the Academic Integrity Board, using the AI Report Form. The report should provide: the name(s) of the student(s), the date and a description of the alleged violation, detailed facts surrounding the alleged violation(s), the names of any witnesses (if available), and detailed factual information or documentation useful in determining the truth of the charge(s).The Director will initiate the Academic Judiciary Process when a report of a substantial or intentional integrity violation is received.
